

Dan Fox
Associate

dan.fox@saffronchase.com

Dan Fox has over ten years political and communications experience, both UK and international, working on campaigning and policy development with government departments, blue-chip corporations and NGOs. After interning in the office of Tony Blair in the lead up to the 1997 General Election, Dan worked for a Soho-based consultancy which, led to a two year period in the Brussels office of a global PR company, Fleishman Hillard.

He returned to London on a secondment to 3i and has since worked for the Engineering & Technology Board and was the Director of Labour Friends of Israel before joining Saffron Chase as a consultant in 2007. Dan supports clients in a wide range of public affairs activities including contact identification, political intelligence, stakeholder events, speechwriting and consultations.

Throughout his career, Dan has covered a variety of clients and sectors including ABTA, Housebuilders Federation, Scottish Power, Ford, Rio Tinto, Boeing, British Music Rights, Glaxo Smithkline, Centrica, International Platinum Association, King of Shaves, Royal Institute of Town Planners, Seafish, Schoolwear Association, and the Royal Navy & Royal Marines Children's Fund.

Currently, Lance Corporal Fox is on military duty in Afghanistan as part of his involvement with the Territorial Army.